Jeanette Aw

Jeanette Aw Ee-Ping (born 28 June 1979), better known by her stage name Ou Xuan (歐萱), is a Singaporean actress and author. She has been a full-time Mediacorp artist for 14 years and is managed by Artiste Networks, a subsidiary of Hype Records. Through her television career, Aw has established herself as one of the most popular and high-profile celebrities in Singapore. She has received several awards, including "All-Time Favourite Artiste" at Mediacorp's Star Awards. Aw has published two books – the best-selling Jeanette Aw: Definitions in 2012 and Sol's World: Somebody to Love in 2015 – and starred in musical Beauty World in 2015.

While in college, Aw entered Route to Glamour, in which she placed first. She signed on with SPH Mediaworks and made her acting debut in the 2001 drama Touched. Aw then switched to Mediacorp in 2002 and played Mo Jingjing in Holland V (2003). Aw was named as one of the Mediacorp 7 Princesses in 2006, after which she achieved wider success with her leading role in acclaimed drama The Little Nyonya (2008). Aw garnered critical appreciation for portraying flawed actress, Zhao Fei Er, in The Dream Makers (2013) and its 2015 sequel. She holds the record for the most Best Actress nominations at the Star Awards without a win, with six. Aw's off-screen roles include duties as a brand ambassador for several Singapore and international companies.
